Copy of a letter from the Government of India, Department of Labour, to all Provincial Governments, etc. No.G108(ARP), dated the 12th August 1941.

I am directed to refer to the question of shelters as a measure of A.R.P. in factories, and to point out that where workmen's lines are constructed of brick or stone and are of one storey only they are likely to afford a very suitable form of shelter for factory workers. Occupants should be instructed to remain in their quarters and lie down or sit in a selected corner which may possibly require some strengthening. Some limited overhead cover can be given by moving tables or 'charpoys' to the corner and lying underneath. Wooden shutters and doors should be closed. If the fullest use is made of workmen's lines in this way, it will in many cases be unnecessary to dig, for the protection of factory workers when in their quarters, slit-trenches the maintenance of which is often difficult.
